COURSE DESCRIPTION

A biblical, historical, and systematic study of baptism and confirmation. Special emphasis is given to reflecting on the Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults in light of the Catholic tradition.

GOALS

This course will assist students to grow in the following knowledge, skills, and attitudes:

Knowledge

1. familiarity with the textual sources of the history of baptism & confirmation
2. an understanding of the deeper theological meaning of the symbols and actions of the rites
3. a critical, well-informed approach to ongoing questions and issues in the practice of Christian initiation
4. a sense of the dignity of all the baptized, and its implications for other areas of theology, such as ecclesiology, ecumenism and theology of orders

Skills

1. an understanding of how to celebrate the rites well, and to make pastoral-liturgical decisions in an informed and intelligent manner
2. the ability to articulate, express, and evaluate distinct theologies of the rites in the life of the Church
3. the ability to interpret the rites mystagogically, both creatively and critically

Attitudes

1. awareness of the central place of baptism in Christian identity and spirituality
2. care for those seeking Christian initiation, with sensitivity to their pastoral needs
3. concern for the value of rich, well-celebrated liturgical rites
4. a commitment to deepening understanding of one's own baptismal identity, and its importance as a foundation in ministry

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

The above goals will be met by:

1. well-prepared and vigorous “full, conscious, and active participation” in class discussions and exercises, including brief class preparation exercises
2. short paper of 5 pages, due October 29
3. a practical exercise consisting of one of (1) a mystagogical homily, (2) a field observation, or (3) a case study, due November 26
4. the final exam, which may be either written or oral.

Grading will be determined as follows:

short paper:	25%
practical exercise:	30%
exam:	30%
class preparation & participation:	15%

ASSIGNMENTS

Short Papers

The subject of this paper will be chosen to answer one question from the list below. Based on the material covered in the course and in the course reading, each essay should not be more than 5 pages and should deal with the historical, theological and pastoral dimensions of the topic. This essay will require some research and critical thought. Students are welcome to consider other issues, but should consult with the instructor if they would like to consider a question not on the list. The paper is due October 29.

- What role, if any, should the catechumenate have in the process of Christian initiation?
- What role does (or should) the fifty days of the Easter season have in the process of Christian initiation?
- Is there any justification for the Rite of Confirmation as it stands today?
- Why should we (or should we not) withhold communion from baptized infants today?
- When is the Holy Spirit “given” in Christian initiation?
- When and how should children born of believing, active members of the church be initiated? What about children of believing, non-active members?
- What is the meaning of the role of godparents and should this role be maintained in the rite of infant baptism?
- What is the role of the baptismal name in the rites of initiation?

Practical Exercise

Students may choose to write one of the following: (1) a mystagogical homily, (2) a field observation report, or (3) a case study response. This assignment will be due November 26.

For the mystagogical homily option, write a 10- to 12-minute homily to open up the meaning of one liturgical unit (symbol, gesture, text or combination of these) in the RCIA process. The target audience would primarily be the newly baptized, and secondarily a whole parish community. Taking the mystagogical homilies in Yarnold’s Awe-Inspiring Rites as an inspiration and rough model, correlate the liturgical symbol itself with both biblical narratives and human experience. Reveal to your audience the depth of what the rite communicates and effects in those who have celebrated it.

For the field observation, observe a celebration of Christian initiation, whether adult initiation at the Easter vigil, infant baptism, or confirmation. Materials will be provided to guide the process of doing participant observation of ritual. Observe and participate in the event, and then immediately afterward, take note of everything that you observed, and make initial guesses as to what it communicated (both intentionally and unintentionally!). Distill your observation and interpretation into a report of 5 to 8 pages.

For the case study response, reflect on one instance in your own pastoral experience being involved in the preparation, planning, or celebration of any rite of Christian initiation. Reflect on the decisions that were made, the issues that emerged, and the operative theology that was held by those involved (both explicitly and implicitly). Describe the circumstances, discussions, and events that took place, and relate the underlying issues and questions to a critical, evaluative understanding of Christian initiation, informed by its history and theology, as appropriate. This paper should be no more than 8 pages.

Final Exam

The final examination will be an oral or written examination, as each student prefers. Written exams will be on the regular examination schedule, and oral exams will be scheduled during Examination Week, at a mutually agreeable time. Students will be responsible for all of the material covered in class. A study guide will be provided ahead of time.

UNIVERSITY REGULATIONS & SUPPORT SERVICES

Students are responsible for knowing the University's academic policies and regulations and any particularities of their own course of study. Ignorance of these policies is not an excuse for any violation thereof. The following policies are particularly important to note:

Submission of Assignments

It is the responsibility of the student to organize his or her work so that the assignments are completed on time. A penalty of 10% of the value of the assignment will be deducted for each day it is overdue without permission.

Students who are unable to hand in assignments or take examinations for legitimate reasons must consult with the instructor. If the reason is medical, students may be required to provide a note from a doctor. Ordinarily, all assignments and exams will be made up at a later date. In certain circumstances, the final grading scheme may be re-weighted if the missed assignment is of a low weight.

Accommodations for Tests/Examinations:

Students are responsible for seeking accommodation with appropriate documentation, prior to writing tests/examinations, if they are of the view that their performance may be affected by extenuating circumstances.

All students requiring academic accommodations for tests and examinations must use the services offered through King's University College.

Scholastic Offences

Scholastic offences are taken seriously and students are directed to read the appropriate policy, specifically, the definition of what constitutes a Scholastic Offence, at the following Web site:

http://www.uwo.ca/univsec/pdf/academic_policies/appeals/scholastic_discipline_undergrad.pdf

Students must write their essays and assignments in their own words. Whenever students take an idea or a passage from another author, they must acknowledge their debt by quotation marks and/or footnotes. Plagiarism is a major academic offense.

All required papers may be subject to submission for textual similarity review to the commercial plagiarism detection software under license to the University for the detection of plagiarism. All papers submitted for such checking will be included as source documents in the reference database for the purpose of detecting plagiarism of papers subsequently submitted to the system.

Scholarly Citation

According to the policy adopted by the faculty of St. Peter's Seminary, all citations, references and bibliographies in written assignments are to follow the formatting prescribed in the Chicago Manual of Style. Footnotes are to be used, rather than author-date references in the body of the text. Please review and consult the summary provided by Kenrick-Glennon Seminary at <https://www.kenrick.edu/wp-content/uploads/Guide-to-Academic-Papers-and-Citations.pdf> for further information.

Copyright of Course Material

Lectures and course materials, including PowerPoint presentations, tests, outlines, and similar materials are protected by copyright. Faculty Members are the exclusive owner of copyright in those materials they create. Students may take notes and make copies for their own use. Students may not allow others to reproduce or distribute lecture notes and course materials publicly

(whether or not a fee is charged) without the express written consent of a Faculty Member. Similarly, students own copyright in their own original papers and exam essays. If a faculty member is interested in posting a student's answers or papers on the course web site he/she should ask for the student's written permission. (See <http://umd.edu/legal/commercial.html>)

Selection and Registration of Courses

Students are responsible for ensuring that their selection of courses is appropriate and accurately recorded, that all prerequisite course(s) have been successfully completed, and that they are aware of any anti-requisite course(s) that they have taken.

Classroom Conduct

Students are expected to conduct themselves with respect for everyone and with professionalism in all classroom activities. Laptops and other electronic devices may be used for classroom academic activities only. The use of such devices must always be in accord with the common good of the whole learning community as specified by the instructor. The instructor may choose at any time to limit their use for instructional purposes or because of the disruptive use of such devices. You are not allowed to have a cell phone, or any other electronic device, with you during tests or examinations.

Support Services

Information about Accessibility, Counselling and Student Development (formerly Services for Students with Disabilities) at King's is available at <https://www.kings.uwo.ca/current-students/student-services/>
